Dear Friends,

Welcome back to a celebration of what's right with the world !

The Video Case Study this month presents the story of the inimitable late Hugo Chavez, the bold and irrepressible Latin American leader who brought about a transformation in the lives of millions of Venezuelan citizens. The Research Study in this issue dissects the mystical phenomenon of "Intelligence" that has preoccupied modern society for well over a century now.

Effective the July 2013 issue, SATTVA would begin its transition from a newsletter into a practitioner-oriented journal. For now, each issue would continue to carry a Case Study and a Research Study each.

We look forward to your feedback. Please do write in at your convenience.

Warm Regards,

Team Samatvam

Dr. Daniel Saint, Dr. Sunil Maheshwari, Mr. Dilbag Singh, Ms. Aarti Maheshwari

Video Case Study

Hugo Chavez: The Latin American Transformational Leader

by Aseem Nath Tripathi

What endears a leader to the masses? Is it oratory? A genuine concern? Political conviction? Destiny? A country's circumstances at a given point of time?

It is perhaps much, much more. In this study on Hugo Chavez by Mr. Aseem Nath Tripathi, the author attempts to encapsulate the leader's enigma through this compact study and video \(below\).

Research Study

The Phenomenon of Human Intelligence

By Prof. Jay K. Mitra and Dr. Sunil Maheshwari

'Intelligence' is one of those high sounding words bandied about in varied contexts, but with a fairly simple objective - How to rate a person?

Behind this innocuous intent is a vast body of scientific research spanning many decades and continents.

The authors attempt to unravel a few aspects related to intelligence - origins, rating mechanisms, objectives and other nuances related to the subject.
